

MAMMUT JULY

Mammut 2026 july report

Page Metrics

Monthly report summarizes the performance of our Facebook and Instagram pages using a set of core social media metrics that help us evaluate growth, content effectiveness, and audience engagement.

Key performance metrics and their meaning for the Facebook and Instagram pages.

The metrics are evaluated in comparison to the previous 30 days' performance (Jan 25– Feb 24).

Audience growth

Instagram followers and Facebook page likes/followers indicate the size of our owned audience and the long-term ability of the channels to generate reach without paid support. A growing audience typically increases the potential for organic distribution and brand awareness over time.

Reach

Reach measures how many unique people saw our content at least once during the selected timeframe. Reach is the clearest indicator of top-of-funnel performance—how effectively we are expanding visibility beyond existing followers.

Impressions

Impressions show how many times content was displayed in total, including repeat views by the same person. If impressions increase while reach stays stable, it usually means the same audience is seeing the content more frequently.

Engagement

Reactions/Likes, Comments, Shares, Saves (Instagram), Clicks (link clicks, profile clicks)
Engagement reflects how compelling content is. Shares and saves are especially strong signals of value (people want others to see it or want to return to it).
